- Yes
 No (leave remaining questions for year blank)

8. How many prospective teachers did your program plan to add in special education in 2016-17?

5

9. Provide any additional comments, exceptions and explanations below:

Three students have been admitted into the special education program for 2016-17. The state is adopting an alternative route to certification for special education teachers which could impact our enrollment in the future

Academic year 2017-18

10. Will your program prepare teachers in special education in 2017-18?

- Yes
 No (leave remaining questions for year blank)

11. How many prospective teachers does your program plan to add in special education in 2017-18?

We will be "teaching out" our graduate Multi-Cat Special Education program in December 2017. 1 will graduate in December 2017, 2 in May 2018. Plans are to begin an undergraduate Multi-Cat Special Education certification program pending college and state approval in Fall 2018.

Annual Goals - Instruction of Limited English Proficient Students

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route to state credential program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(A\)\(ii\), §206\(a\))

Information about teacher shortage areas can be found at <https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ope/pol/tsa.html>.

Please provide the information below about your program's goals to increase the number of prospective teachers in instruction of limited English proficient students in each of three academic years.

Assurances

Please certify that your institution is in compliance with the following assurances. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(A\)\(iii\), §206\(b\)) Note: Be prepared to provide documentation and evidence for your responses, when requested, to support the following assurances.

1. Preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

- Yes
- No

2. Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

- Yes
- No

3. Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

- Yes
- No
- Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

- Yes
- No

5. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

- Yes
- No

6. Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

- Yes
 No

7. Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

- Yes
 No

8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

1. A number of our students stay in WV to teach, but others go to PA, OH, VA, or NC. Because we have a reciprocity agreement with these states, we offer candidates training that will allow certification in their selected fields in the states where they are likely to teach. 2. Because of our close relationship with local school systems, candidates are able to participate in field experiences allowing them to make instructional decisions under the guidance of mentor teachers. In addition, teacher candidates participate in action research as they analyze the impact of their teaching on student learning. This will prepare them to make decisions using best practice in their future classroom. 3. Our master's degree with certification in Multi-categorical Special Ed. requires prior certification in another teaching field: therefore, prospective special ed. candidates have already received coursework in core academic subjects prior to entering the program. 4. General education teaching candidates are required to take the course SPEC 230: Exceptionalities & Human Diversity which trains them to provide differentiated instruction to children with disabilities. Another required course is SPEC 330: Behavior Management where students develop a personal behavior management philosophy and levels of behavior interventions to address the differing needs and perspectives of students with and without disabilities. We have also proposed an undergraduate Special Education major, to begin Fall 2018. 5. Candidates receive training in providing instruction to limited English proficient students in coursework done in EDUC 240. Master's candidates take part in a two-hour workshop on working with students who are limited English proficient in EDUC 510. An expert from the public school system shares experiences teaching limited English proficient students with the class. Candidates are also asked to provide modifications to lesson plans for teaching limited English proficient students. 6. General education teacher candidates receive training in providing instruction to children from low-income families in EDUC 101: Into to Education, EDUC 201 Learning and Human Development, and EDUC 510 Adapting Instruction to Individual Students by exploring the work of Ruby Payne. 7. Prospective teachers receive training on how to effectively teach in urban and rural schools by studying characteristics of diversity and urban and rural students throughout the undergraduate program. Candidates complete a diverse field placement to supplement diversities seen in our partnership schools.

Use of Technology

1. Provide the following information about the use of technology in your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(F\))

Does your program prepare teachers to:

- a. integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction

Yes
 No

- b. use technology effectively to collect data to improve teaching and learning

2. Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

We have integrated a variety of instructional technology assignments in each of the core Teacher Preparation courses. These assignments supplement the 3-credit hour Technology course requirement; EDUC 141: Educational Technology Survey (2-hr. Freshman level) and EDUC 321: Technology Integration (1-hr Junior/Senior level). Our students use technology in their coursework and in their field experiences and clinical placements. Each of our students has a personal laptop computer that is supported with standard software and a high speed Internet connection. This campus wide support allows faculty to plan a variety of in class activities. We are using two systems for data collection and analysis. We maintain a department database with student data and also reports department findings and updates in the campus wide assessment database. West Virginia Wesleyan College uses the TaskStream assessment management system for managing, analyzing, and reporting data. Faculty implement ongoing curriculum revision based on assessment findings from course embedded assessments. The two dedicated classrooms have been renovated to include model technology from the P-12 setting.

Teacher Training

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request. (§205\(a\)\(1\)\(G\))

1. Does your program prepare general education teachers to:

b. participate as a member of individualized education program teams

- Yes
 No

c. teach students who are limited English proficient effectively

Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

Candidates are introduced to the ten required components of an IEP and the state of West Virginia electronic form during SPEC 230: Exceptionalities & Human Diversity. They then prepare an instructional IEP from a case study representing one of the categories. Additionally, candidates in this class adapt a lesson plan for general education by using the parallel lesson plan format to reflect adaptations for eleven categories of disability and culturally or linguistically diverse students. During SPEC 330: Behavior Management, candidates complete a second IEP from a case study related to the instructional and behavioral needs of a student. In each of the IEP activities, emphasis is placed on the requirements of an effective IEP and on the role of each member of the IEP team. General education candidates are trained to teach students who are limited English proficient by the Director of English as a Second Language program.

3. Does your program prepare special education teachers to:

a. teach students with disabilities effectively

- Yes
 No
 Program does not prepare special education teachers

b. participate as a member of individualized education program teams

- Yes
- No
- Program does not prepare special education teachers

c. teach students who are limited English proficient effectively

- Yes
- No
- Program does not prepare special education teachers

4. Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares special education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

Our Masters in Education: Multi-categorical Special Education Program provides candidates more intensive training in how to teach students with disabilities and expectations for members of an IEP team through required coursework. Each course requires extensive exploration of research based strategies, applications to case studies, additional assignments in parallel lesson plans and IEPs and a diagnostic assessment case study that models the pre-referral through IEP process. Application of these skills is honed during the Practicum placement in which students are required to apply skills acquired during previous coursework as well as be a fully contributing professional in a public school setting. As Master's students, they take part in a two-hour workshop on working with students who are limited English proficient in EDUC 510: Adapting Instruction to Individual Students. An expert from the public school system shares experiences teaching limited English proficient students with the class. Candidates are also asked to provide modifications to lesson plans for teaching limited English proficient students. We have also proposed an undergraduate Special Education program to begin Fall 2018.

Contextual Information

Please use this space to provide any additional information that describes your teacher preparation program(s). You may also attach information to this report card (see below). The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.
